

"ORNL provides so much opportunity for professional growth. With our range of experience, expertise, and culture, it seems impossible not to learn something new every day."

—Alex Lang

Nuclear Engineer,

Fusion and Fission Energy and Science Directorate

Co-Chair of the ANS-8.17 Working Group

NUCLEAR

TODAY. TOMORROW. ALWAYS.

For Alex Lang, joining ORNL was a homecoming—and a chance to take on new challenges. With a background in fissile materials operations, Alex leads critical projects across ORNL's nuclear criticality safety research while managing key projects for the National Nuclear Security Administration's Nuclear Criticality Safety Program. From advancing analytical methods to training the next generation of nuclear material handlers, Alex is helping the nuclear industry solve their hardest problems and ensuring criticality safety for decades to come.
