

AMERICAN DND

American Demolition & Nuclear Decommissioning

provides services related to the decommissioning and demolition of a facility. There are many phases to a demolition project and American DND personnel have accomplished all aspects and different stages of the decommissioning process. American DND personnel can either assist/augment an existing staff through the decommissioning phases, or American DND can actually perform contract for those services if requested.

Managing Change

American DND Personnel are experienced professionals at Change Management. Change begins when the decision to decommission a facility is first made and ends when that facility is returned to the original “GREEN” habitat before it was built. ADND’s previous project experience allows us to TEAM with a Client and work through the myriad of changing, evolving and emerging issues encountered during the decommissioning process.
